APPEAL FOR EDUCATION

The Majernik family is grateful and committed to Catholic schools

Becky and Mike share the belief that Catholic education is making a difference as they see their children remain close to their family and their faith. Their daughter, Kylie, graduated from Notre Dame Cathedral Latin High School (NDCL) in the spring. Andrew, a junior at NDCL, is now joined by his brother, Connor, a freshman. And, Danny, the last of the four Majernik children to be educated at St. Paschal Baylon Elementary School, is entering first grade.

“Having four children in Catholic schools is challenging,” says Becky, “But it is not something we are willing to give up.” The couple is incredibly grateful for the financial support they have received. Becky says, “Our kids appreciate every day in Catholic schools. Thank you to people who give to support Catholic education. We wouldn’t be able to have our kids in Catholic schools without the support of others.”
